Ted Irwin of St. Petersburg won the small (9-boat) IOR class in a just-launched duplicate of his Southern Ocean Racing Conference entry, Razzle Dazzle. The new boat is named R2D2.

No award was given for sheer speed, but if there had been one, it would have gone to an O.H. Rodgers-designed 33-footer, Enlightenment. The ultralight flyer with hiking "wings" extending from her deck beat every other boat across the line by huge time margins, but with a PHRF rating of 10 there was little chance St. Petersburg owner Bob Moon could win on handicap. The next boat in class had a PHRF rating of 78, and the most favored PHRF yacht rated 243.

The Mariners' Museum of Newport News, Virginia, has announced its second scale ship model competition and exhibit, to be held in 1985. The 1985 contest follows a similar, highly successful competition held in 1980 as part of the museum's fiftieth anniversary.

The competition is open to professional and amateur scale-model shipbuilders of all ages, and there is no entry fee. Entry forms must be completed and returned to the museum no later than March 1, 1985, and entries will be accepted during the period April 1–June 5, 1985.

Prizes will be awarded in four divisions: scratchbuilt models, semi-scratchbuilt models, kit models, and models built by youths. The scratchbuilt and semi-scratchbuilt divisions will be divided into the following classes: sailing ships, powered ships, and small craft. Judging will be conducted by nationally recognized ship model experts.

Rules of the competition are described in a brochure available from: The Mariners' Museum, Museum Drive, Newport News, VA 23606.
